Would Not Be Menace to Public Peace and Safety—Attends Church With Mother—Pleased With Finding.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Concord, N. H., Jan. 12.—Believing that his early release on bail is practically assured by the report of a federal court commission that he would not be a menace to public safety, Harry Kendall Thaw, today began making plans for visiting friends within the state.

By direction of counsel neither Thaw nor his mother would comment on the finding of the commission, although the countenances of both indicated their jubilation. Thaw said that if the court should admit him to bail he would not leave the state for the present.

Since his detention he has made many acquaintances, some of whom have invited him to visit them. He is planning, he said to make his first visit at the home of one of his custodians, Sheriff Holman P. Drew, at Berlin. Drew is the official who arrested him near Colebrook after his deportation from Canada. Thaw's tentative arrangements provide for a trip covering nearly every section of the state.

After the lawyers have had sufficient time to study the report of the commission, U. S. Judge Edgar R. Aldrich will give another hearing on Thaw's petition for admission to bail. The date has not been fixed.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Concord, N. H., Jan. 12.—Harry Kendall Thaw would not be a public menace if he were released on bail, according to the report of the commission appointed by Federal Judge Aldrich to inquire into the state of Thaw's mentality.

The report says the commission finds Thaw is not afflicted with any of the mental diseases from which he was suffering when he slew Stanford White.

The finding was announced yesterday. While the commissioners say that they have reached a definite and positive opinion as to the present mental condition of Thaw and his probable state of mind at the time of the homicide, they refrain from expressing this opinion in view of their instructions from the court not to "embarrass any subsequent litigation where the broad question of insanity might be involved."

"Upon the question of menace or danger through the granting of bail, we may, however, be permitted and probably are compelled," concludes the report, "to record our finding that whatever may have been the mental condition of Harry K. Thaw at the time of the homicide, upon which question we express no opinion he is not now suffering from any of the forms of mental disease alleged by the prosecution at the time of the trial or subsequently thereto." SON-IN-LAW IS ARRESTED ON A MURDER CHARGE

Bowling Green, O., Jan. 12.—Charles Neiswander, 27, was arrested today at his home in Jackson township on the charge of first degree murder in the death of Edward Dindore. He is now in jail awaiting arraignment. Dindore, who was Neiswander's father-in-law, was killed December 13, and he and Neiswander were driving from McComb to the railroad station at Deshler in a buggy. Dindore was on his way to his home in Fostoria, after a visit with the Neiswander family. The attack took place early in the morning, before daylight.

Dindore was beaten over the head and died several hours later in a nearby house to which he was taken after the assault. Neiswander was in a daze for several days after the attack and claimed he had also been beaten. He blamed the attack on robbers. Dindore was 53 and well to do. He was supposed to have a large sum of money with him at the time he was assaulted and the motive was attributed to robbers.

Sixteen-Year-Old Girl Who Eloped With Wealthy Married Man

DELILAH BRADLEY.

Delilah Bradley, sixteen years old, of Pemberton, N. J., has run off from her home with F. M. Foster, a wealthy chicken farmer of the same place, who is forty-two years of age. Foster was married. The girl knew it.

Now both are under arrest in Mobile, Ala., he being accused under the Mann white slave act. He has employed good lawyers and will make a fight in the courts. He insists the Mann act was designed to cover only the importation from one state to another of women for commercial purposes.

Young Caminetti son of the immigration commissioner at Washington, and young Diggs were arrested in Nevada on a similar charge and taken back to California, were tried and sentenced. Thus the Foster-Bradley case is similar.

But Foster will fight his case to the highest courts for he has a lot of money.

"This is what the girl thinks: 'I loved Mr. Foster as soon as I saw him, and I knew just as soon that he loved me. I was happy when I was with him and utterly miserable when I was away from him. Even in my own home I was longing to be with him. We couldn't live as we were in New Jersey, so we ran away. But they will never get a word from me that will hurt Mr. Foster. He has been loving and kind and I shall remain loyal to him no matter what happens.'"

"The soldiers were not kept under proper discipline," says the text of the report. General Abbey himself admitted that this order was not enforced. The result was that crowds of privates were daily seen on the streets, they visited the saloons and many of them became intoxicated and some carried revolvers while they were in an intoxicated condition.

"Considering the number of men involved in the strike," says the report, "the length of time the struggle was continued and the bitterness caused; bringing soldiers and Wad-del men to the district, the strike was remarkably peaceful. The only persons killed were two of the strikers who were wantonly shot down by Wad-del men and deputies at Painesville, and a deputy and striker who killed each other near Horon town."

JOEL M. FOSTER.

Presidio, Texas, Jan. 12.—Believing the retreat of the federal army from Ojinaga, Mexico, had completely crushed the Huerta government in the north of Mexico, General Francisco Villa today said he would begin tomorrow to move his army to Chihuahua, preparatory to his campaign southward.

Since nearly all the federals who were in Ojinaga have fled to the United States, General Villa said he would leave only a few soldiers on the border near here. At Chihuahua he expects to have a force of ten thousand men from which to draw in attacks on Zapatas, Aguas Calientes and Guadalupe.

"The defeat of the northern division of the army leaves us concerned only with the south," said General Villa. "The few remaining federal garrisons on the west and east coasts will be driven out by the rebel forces now pursuing them. Mexico City has always been my destination." The little village of Ojinaga is a wreck from its recent bombardment, but General Villa has ordered it put in condition. Only 1,000 rebels occupy the houses. Others are scattered over the country on foraging expeditions. About 3,000 have already been sent toward Chihuahua.

Major McNamee, commanding the United States troops has received orders from Brig. Gen. Bliss at San Antonio to remove to the nearest railroad station all the federal soldiers and civilians now being held in Presidio. The crowd of more than 4,000 refugees and soldiers will probably march soon for Marfa, Texas, 67 miles over a mountain road. All the refugees are to be put to work preparing their own camps.

Twenty-eight hundred Mexican Federal soldiers, six Mexican generals, 200,000 rounds of ammunition, two cannons, four large field pieces, and 1,500 civilian refugees were in the custody of the United States army border patrol today as the result of the federal army's evacuation of Ojinaga, Mexico, its flight to American territory and the occupation of Mexican village by General Francisco Villa's rebel forces.

Villa had taken more than 300 prisoners during the mad rush following evacuation of the fortress. About 200 of these were identified as volunteer members of the Orozco and Salazar commands, and every one of these were executed shortly after daybreak Sunday without the formality of court-martial.

The rebel losses in the assault are placed at less than 50 killed, and the Federal loss at about 100 killed, not (Continued on Page 3, Col. 5.)

Great Cut in Public Expense in Operation of Warnes Law

In Licking County There Will Be a Saving of Over $19,000 in Expenditure.

Columbus, O., Jan. 12.—In the discussion of the new system of taxation carried by the so-called Warnes law, one of the fundamentals, the cost of operation, has been lost in the debate over the political features. It is not yet understood that there will be erected through this instrument a saving of $1,491,561 for the year 1914. Cursory readers of the news concerning it have come to believe that because of the abolition of the elective feature in the choosing of assessors a great partisan machine has been created. Many of them do not yet know that through the operation of the new State Civil Service law, which went into effect January 1, all the assessors are to be appointed through competitive examination without regard to their partisanship.

If the law had not been enacted a quadrennial reappraisal of real estate would have been made this year in addition to the regular annual assessment of personal property. Allowing not a single dollar of increase over figures of prior years, this would have cost $2,374,839 under the old method, not including the expenses of election. The estimate of expense under the new system is $883,278, a conservative amount, according to the Ohio Tax Commission. Under the old dispensation there would have been in the field an army of 5,880 assessors—3,145 personal and 2,465 realty. Under the new system there will be 1,966, and they will attend to all of the work.

A table of 1914 expenses under the Warnes law, as compared to the 1914 expenses under the old system, for the different counties of the state show a material reduction in each. In Licking county the reduction in expenditure will be $19,037. In Cuyahoga county the reduction is $214,215. In Hamilton county the reduction is $206,369, while Lucas county taxpayers will benefit to the extent of $69,297. In Montgomery county all property will be assessed and the duplicate made up this year at an expense of approximately $5,119 less than what it would have been under the old system. In Franklin county the expense of administration under the Warnes law will be $78,623 less. In Mahoning county, $27,976 will be saved; in Summit county, $22,728. In Stark county, $40,780, while Trumbull county taxpayers will benefit to the extent of $40,456.

The operation of the Warnes law is expected to be less expensive from year to year as the force of assessors becomes better organized and more efficient. The cost of assessing both real and personal property will decrease rather than increase, according to the Tax Commission, and in the end the expense of assessing both real and personal property annually will not exceed what has been the annual cost of assessing personal property alone in the past. The commission expects the time to come when both real and personal property will be accurately assessed and all that will be necessary in making the reappraisal will be to observe changes in conditions from year to year. This law will avoid tearing up real estate values at stated periods, as heretofore. Under the present act values will be gradually brought to equitable figures and kept there.

In the subjoined table the first column shows what will be the approximate expense in assessing all classes of property for local purposes in 1914 under the Warnes law. The second column gives what would have been paid out under the old method, and the third column shows the decrease expected under the Warnes law. To the first column the estimated expense of Boards of Complaint, amounting to $70,000, and extra days for Deputy Assessors, totaling $12,200, neither of which was apportioned among the counties, were added.

Very low temperatures prevailed everywhere east of the Rocky mountains, except in the northeastern part of the country. A reading of 30 degrees below zero was recorded at White River, Canada. The low temperatures are predicted to continue in the upper lake region, the Ohio valley and in the south, where frost tonight will be felt as far south as Miami, Fla. The cold wave is expected to advance eastward rapidly, reaching the Atlantic coast by Tuesday. Generally fair weather is predicted but storm warnings are displayed on the Atlantic coast from Hatteras to Eastport, Me., and on the Pacific coast from San Francisco northward.

An Artist's Infatuation

By WILLIAM CHANDLER

Walter Phelps from the time he was six years old gave evidence of possessing artistic abilities and when he was fourteen began to study the profession of painting. One faculty he possessed was that of endowing anything which became attractive to him through association with beauty. Near his home lived a little girl, who became his playmate. She was of a lower social grade than Walter, but his parents had no fear of his falling in love with her, for she was very homely, and they, not knowing of his disposition to endow what he liked with beauty, supposed that an artist would only fall in love with a beautiful woman.

When Walter was twenty years old he became engaged to this girl, Martha Gibbs, to the astonishment of every one who knew him. Her hair was a fiery red, her teeth were prominent, and she had a cast in her eye. But his parents, knowing how useless it is to interfere between lovers, refrained from any attempt in the case of their son. Besides, they knew nothing against Martha except her homeliness and her indifferent social position. No one supposed that Walter considered his betrothed beautiful till he painted her portrait and they observed that he looked at it with admiring eyes. Then everybody realized that his love for her caused him to endow her with a beauty that existed only in his imagination.

Great as was their surprise at this discovery, it was nothing compared with their astonishment when they learned that he was using Martha for a model. He painted her as a shepherdess, as springtime and, dressing her in fashionable attire, as a lady. Then, when his pictures found no purchasers, instead of attributing his ill success to his choice of a model, he became impressed with the idea that he had mistaken his calling. About the time he was making up his mind to this effect Martha flitted him for a greengrocer, whom she married secretly without letting her fiancé know what she was about to do.

Walter's misery was only equalled by the joy of his parents and his friends. Now that it was all over between him and Martha one of his intimate associates made bold to express wonder that he, an artist, with an eye for the beautiful, should have attributed beauty to Martha.

"Ah," exclaimed the unfortunate man, "there is a loss to me as great in my profession as is the wounding of my feelings! Surely all hope of my succeeding in my profession has gone, since I shall never find another model suitable to my needs."

Walter left the brush and the palette for awhile for other avocations. On the walls of his room he hung the portraits of the girl who had flitted him, and it seemed to his mother that the case of her son's love had been made worse instead of better. At last she ventured to ask him for her sake to put away his past and take hold of the future. Walter loved his mother next to the girl who had flitted him, and she finally persuaded him to let her hang the pictures he worshipped in an upper room, receiving a promise from him that he would visit it but once a month.

During the first half year after the removal of his idols Walter waited impatiently for the day of his visit to them to come round. During the second half year he was less impatient, and at the end of twelve months told his mother that she was right—it would be better that he should cease to dwell on that which was dead to him. He would visit his pictures no more.

Walter at this time made another discovery—that if he could not make an artist of himself he could succeed at nothing. He resumed his painting and instead of confining himself to one model chose different ones. In the case of all of them he was unimpaired by love. From the moment of this second start he met with instant success. Every picture he painted was sold as soon as offered to the public, and it was not long before he achieved a reputation which brought him high prices.

Walter's mother made a match for him with a young lady of his own class. She was not a beauty, but a very estimable woman. Notwithstanding that her husband in marrying her had yielded to his mother's wishes, considering his heart broken forever, he soon came to love his wife devotedly. After his parents' death he removed with his family to the home they had occupied and where he had been born. One day his wife unlocked the gallery of his former idols and saw the walls covered with pictures of red headed girls all looking alike and all faithful.

"Walter," she cried, "come up here!" Walter obeyed the summons and joined his wife in the gallery of pictures of his former love.

"What are these?" asked his wife. "They all seem to be portraits of the same person."

Walter for the first time, looking at the pictures he had made using Martha Gibbs for his model, saw a row of hideous faces. His wife saw an expression on his face of a sort of shame he was unable to conceal.

"They are my best productions," he said. "Please have them removed. I am too busy to attend to the matter myself."

That was the final vanishing of the artist's dream.

Even the stoutest detective may become a mere shadow.

Human Procession

Robert Underwood Johnson, who recently resigned as editor of the Century Magazine after forty years on the staff of that periodical, was born in Washington sixty-one years ago today. Mr. Johnson's services have not been alone to literature. With John Muir, he set on foot the movement which resulted in the creation of Yellowstone National Park. Long and ardent advocate of forest conservation, his influence has been felt all over the United States and in Canada. Within the last year he has led the crusade against the Hetch Hetchy water supply project in California. In this connection he asserted that the nation was "called upon to make sacrifice of its noblest pleasure ground, not to save the lives or the health of San Franciscans, but their dollars—not, moreover, to supply water merely for drinking, but for power."

Mr. Johnson was one of the early advocates of international copyright and for his service he received decorations from France and Italy. He was the originator of the memorial to Keats and Shelley in Rome, and in letters to President Roosevelt he was the first to propose the conservation movement.

A reformer whose scope is the civilized world is Dr. Wilbur Fisk Crafts, superintendent of the International Reform Bureau. Temperance, Sabbath observance and the suppression of the traffic in vice are the chief ends of the international bureau which was founded in 1895 by Dr. Crafts, and of which he has since been the head. Dr. Crafts was born in Fryeburg, Me., sixty-four years ago today. His father was a clergyman, and he chose the same profession. After twelve years in the Methodist ministry he changed to the Congregational church, and three years later affiliated with the Presbyterians. He was pastor in several New England cities, and in New York, Brooklyn and Chicago, and in 1880 founded the American Sabbath Union. As head of the reform bureau he has traveled all over America, Europe, Asia and Australia. On his recent tour of Europe, Dr. Crafts found that the old countries are making great progress in temperance. In Germany he found that the socialists had a well organized and powerful temperance organization. In Great Britain he found that a third of all youths are enrolled in abstinence societies. In the social evil Dr. Crafts found the conditions in Europe very bad.

Jack London, considered by many the most forceful and virile of American novelists, was born in San Francisco thirty-eight years ago today. Newsboy, sailor before the mast, obo and jack of all things were his early occupations, and his education was derived principally in the school of adversity and experience. At eighteen he was almost illiterate in his conversation and writing, but within a few years his name appeared on a volume that electrified the reading world. London began his education in the University of California, but he left that institution to go to the Klondike. His first stories were returned with great regularity, but he persevered, and at last disposed of a story for $5—at least, that amount was promised, but London never collected it. He was twenty-four when he scored his first literary bullseye with "The Son of the Wolf." His "Call of the Wild," written in 1901, and "The Sea Wolf," published a year later, are today English classics.

TAKE SALTS TO FLUSH KIDNEYS

Eat less meat if you feel Backache or Bladder troubles you—Salts is fine for Kidneys.

Meat forms uric acid which excites and overworks the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Regular eaters of meat must flush the kidneys occasionally. You must relieve them like you relieve your bowels; removing all the acids, waste and poison, else you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sour, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment; the channels of the bladder get irritated, obliging you to get up two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's urinous waste get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine and bladder disorders disappear. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive; harmless and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then, thus avoiding serious kidney and bladder diseases.

The husky visitors played wonderful basketball, showing exceptionally good floor work, in which Reese was the leading star. Lineup:

HOW TO KEEP WELL IN WINTER

Do not let your blood get thin this winter. For people who have a tendency toward anemia, or bloodlessness, winter is a trying season. Lack of exercise and fresh air, the more restricted diet, many times combine to lower the tone of the body and deplete the blood.

As soon as you notice the tired feeling, lack of appetite and shortness of breath that are warning symptoms of thin blood take a short treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Do not wait until the color has entirely left your cheeks, until your lips are white, your eyes dull and your ears like mother of pearl. It is so much easier to correct thinning of the blood in the earlier stages than later.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills build up the blood and strengthen the nerves. In this way the general health is improved, the appetite increased, the digestion is strengthened and new ambition and energy developed. Work becomes easier because it does not cause exhaustion.

Keep your system at its highest efficiency with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, the great blood builder and nerve tonic. Your own druggist can supply you. A booklet "Building Up the Blood" will be mailed free on request by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. It is well worth studying by all who do not enjoy complete health.

Robbers Work COMBINATION; STEAL $2,125

An early evening burglary, performed while the family was asleep in the upstairs bedrooms, resulted in the theft of $2,000 in bonds and $125 in cash at the home of C. A. Fink, 39 Oakwood avenue, Sunday night. The burglary was discovered about 9 o'clock and a police investigation was made by Special Officer Greeley who called Captain Swank after hearing the story of the family.

Burglars forced an entrance to the home, worked the combination of a large safe and extracted the bonds and cash, making their getaway without being disturbed in their work.

The bonds were two in number, for $1,000 each and were issued by the Ohio Electric railroad company. They were numbered 624 and 625 respectively.

Captain Swank uncovered a clue which he believes will result in the discovery of the bonds and the apprehension of the thieves.

Mike Gibbons and Bob McAllister, Cleverest Middleweights, May Decide Championship

Bob McAllister and Mike Gibbons, the cleverest middleweights seen in the ring since the days when Sam Langford belonged in that class, may settle the middleweight championship of the United States, and of course of the world, within a very short time.

Their contest of ten rounds in New York is hardly to be considered as sufficient of a test to determine definitely which is the better man.

McAllister's recent showing with Battling Levinsky, Dan Morgan's dashing light-heavyweight, brought him to the front with a bound. He showed cleverness sufficient to make him a contender in his class. On the other hand Gibbons has proved time and again that he must be considered. Gibbons should have been the middleweight champion long ago. Had he been properly managed he would have acquired the title. There isn't much doubt that he could have disposed of Frank Klaus, Jack Dillon, and a few other runners-up. But for some reason Gibbons' manager has not pushed him to the front.

The only other man who figures with McAllister and Gibbons in the class is Chip, the new Pennsylvania middleweight, who knocked out Klaus twice.

McAllister has not had so much experience as Gibbons, but he showed in his bout with Levinsky that he knew many of the tricks of the ring. He is a native of California, and his first showing away from home was in his contest with Young Mike Donovan, when he gave a flash of his ability.

Gibbons' home is in St. Paul, around which he has done much of his boxing.

The Warnes Law at Close Range, No. 2

It has been shown that the entire tax assessing machinery of the state is now under civil service; that tax assessors will be appointed in the various counties solely on merit and that the number of assessors has been reduced in the State from 5,880 to 196—a reduction of 66-2-3 per cent. A proportionate reduction has been made in this county. These figures effectually dispose of the charge made by the distressed Republican gangsters that Governor Cox seeks to convert the tax machinery of the State into a personal political machine. Indeed, we shall not hear much more of this charge save from those so desperate as to ignore truth.

We can now turn to another phase of the Warnes law that has an intense local interest. It is known to a cent what the quadrennial reappraisal of the real estate in Ohio cost in 1910, to wit $1,777,958. It is known to a cent what the reappraisal of personal property in Ohio cost in 1912—personal property assessors $347,098, county boards of equalization $7,964 and city boards of review $241,909, total, $596,971. This year, 1914, being the year in which the quadrennial reappraisal of real estate would have taken place if the Warnes law had not been enacted, what would have been the total cost thereof? Certainly not less than it cost four years ago. And it is equally certain that it would not cost less in 1914 than in 1912 to make the personal property assessment for the State. Indeed, Ohio has grown much, her property has increased much in four years and two years. But we shall not take that into account. Here then, would be the cost of making the 1914 reappraisal under the old law:

Total cost under the old law for (1914) $2,374,839
What will the same work cost the State this year, under the Warnes law? Naturally, much less for at one stroke of his pen Governor Cox saved the State the per diem of 3914 assessors, real and personal by abolishing their offices. The State Tax Commission has set aside the sum of $328,328 to pay the 196 assessors allotted to do the work that 5,880 have heretofore done; it has set aside $70,000 to pay the salaries of the new boards of complaint; $241,909 to pay the salaries of county or district assessors; $231,250 to pay clerk hire and $12,200 for emergencies. That's the outside total cost of the entire reappraisal this year under the Warnes law. Here is how it looks tabulated:

Per diem of 196 assessors $328,328
Expenses of boards of complaint 70,000
Salary of district assessors 241,909

Paul's Personal Appearance.
All that we know of Paul's personal appearance from his own writings is found in II Cor. x, 10, which indicates that he did not possess the advantage of a distinguished or imposing presence. His stature was somewhat diminutive, his eyesight weak (see Acts xxiii, 5, and Gal. iv, 15), nor did he regard his address as impressive. Much of this personal criticism, however, may have been the outcome of the apostle's desire to avoid magnifying himself or his own talents. A fourth century tablet represents him as venerable looking and dignified, with a high, bald forehead, full bearded and with features indicating force of character. One ancient writer says Paul's nose was strongly aquiline. All the early pictures and mosaics, as well as some of the early writers (among them Malalas and Nicephorus) agree in describing the apostle as of short stature, with long face, prominent eyebrows, clear complexion and a winning expression, the whole aspect being that of power and dignity. The oldest known portrait is the Roman panel of the fourth century, already referred to above.—Christian Herald.

Easy Solution.
"Say," said the "wise guy" to the patient listener, "did you hear about that fellow who came in on a South American liner the other day and nobody could make him understand any one of seventeen different languages? They even tried him with the deaf and dumb stuff, but he only shook his head and said nothing. Finally they had to send him back to the boat, and he'll probably spend the rest of his life sailing back and forth between here and South America, as nobody knows what country he comes from. I bet I could find where he hails from. Simplest thing in the world. Just get a collection of coins from all countries and place them before him one after another. When the right one came along he'd show his nationality right there. They all talk for money, you know."—New York Tribune.

Gravity of a Spinning Top.
A spinning top is kept from falling because of the speed with which it revolves. The attraction of gravitation is temporarily overcome by the centrifugal force produced by the rotation of the top when it is spun. Each part of the top is subject to the same centrifugal force as each other part at the same distance from the axis of rotation and to no greater force, so that there is no cause for the top being pulled in any particular direction by the force of gravity. As soon as the centrifugal force begins to lessen because of lessening speed of rotation the attraction of gravity begins to be exerted again and the top begins to wobble. When the spinning motion diminishes to such an extent that the attraction of gravitation becomes greater than the centrifugal force the top falls to one side.

Old Estimate of Field Hands.
The sixteenth century Earl of Warwick stayed the slaughter after the suppression of Kett's rising by an argument which shows how completely agricultural workers were regarded as mere "hands." Of the 20,000 insurgents who had encamped with Kett on Mousehold Heath 2,000 or 3,000 had been killed in the battle, the strength of the victors lying in German and Italian mercenaries. Kett himself was hanged from the walls of Norwich castle, forty-five others were hanged, drawn and quartered in the market place, and 300 in all are said to have been executed. Warwick checked the demand for increasing the number of victims by asking, "What shall we do, then—hold the plow ourselves, play the carters and labor the ground with our own hands?"—London Chronicle.

David Livingstone.
David Livingstone will always rank among the most illustrious of the African explorers. He was a real pathfinder and civilizer as well as a most devoted Christian and philanthropist. Upon his large and lasting fame there seems to be not a single blot. From the spot in Africa where he died, near Chitumbos village, on the Malilang, Livingstone's body was in 1874 taken to England and deposited with high honors in Westminster Abbey, the government bearing all the expenses of the elaborate funeral.

Two Views.
"What I want to see," said the reformer, "is a city that knows absolutely nothing of graft."
"That's just what I'd like to see," replied the ward politician. "Wouldn't it be a gold mine for the right parties?"—Washington Star.

OLD FAVORITES.

MY HEART LEAPS UP WHEN I BEHOLD.
A rainbow in the sky
So was it when my life began;
So is it now I am a man;
So be it when I shall grow old
Or let me die.
The child is whither of the man,
And I could wish my days to be Bound each to each by nature's plecty.
—William Wordsworth.

DO I LOVE THEE?
Do I love thee? Ask the bee
If she loves the flowery lea
Where the honeysuckle grows.
As she answers, yes or no,
Darling, take my answer so.
Do I love thee? Ask the bird
When her matin song is heard
If she loves the sky so fair,
Fleecy cloud and liquid air.
As she answers, yes or no,
Darling, take my answer so.
Do I love thee? Ask the flower
If she loves the vernal shower
Or the kisses of the sun
Or the dew when day is done.
As she answers, yes or no,
Darling, take my answer so.
—John G. Saxe.

OLD IRONSIDES.
YE, tear her tattered ensign down,
Long has it waved on high,
And many an eye has danced to see
That banner in the sky.
Beneath it rung the battle shout
And burst the cannon's roar.
The meteor of the ocean air Shall sweep the clouds no more.
Her deck, once red with heroes' blood,
Where knelt the vanquished foe,
When winds were hurrying o'er the flood
And waves were white below,
No more shall feel the victor's tread
Or know the conquered knee.
The harpies of the shore shall pluck
The eagle of the sea.
Oh, better that her shattered hulk
Should sink beneath the wave,
Her thunders shook the mighty deep.
And there should be her grave,
Nail to the mast her holy flag,
Set every threadbare sail
And give her to the god of storms,
The lightning and the gale.
—Oliver Wendell Holmes.

POPPING CORN.
AND there they sat a-popping corn,
John Stiles and Susan Cutler;
John Stiles as fat as any ox, and Susan fat as butter.
And there they sat and shelled the corn and talked and talked the fire, And talked of different kind of ears and hitched their chairs up nigher.
THEN Susan she the popper shook, and John he shook the popper.
Till both their faces grew as red as saucers
made of corn and shelled the fire,
And then they shelled and popped and ate all kinds of fun a-popping,
And he haw-hawed at her remarks and she laughed at his joking.
AND still they popped, and still they ate—John's mouth was like a hopper.
And stirred the fire, and sprinkled salt,
and shook and shook the popper.
The clock struck nine, and then struck ten, and still the corn kept popping.
It struck eleven, then struck twelve, and still no sign of stopping.
AND John he ate, and Susan thought the corn did pop and patter.
Till John cried out: "The corn's afeel!
Why, Susan, what's the matter?"
Said she: "John Stiles, it's one o'clock;
you'll die of indigestion!"
Said she: "All this popping corn; why don't you pop the question?"

"HARD TIMES."
LET us pause in life's pleasure and count its many tears.
While we all sorrow with the poor.
There's a song that will linger forever in our ears.
'Tis hard times, come again no more.

CHORUS.
'Tis the song, the sigh of the weary,
Hard times, hard times, come again no more.
Many days you have lingered around my cabin door;
Oh, hard times, come again no more!
While we seek mirth and beauty and music light and gay,
There are frank forms fainting at the door.
Though their voices are silent, their pleading looks will say:
Hard times, come again no more.

There's a pale, drooping maiden who tells her life away
With a worn heart whose better days are o'er.
Though her voice would be merry, 'tis sighing all the day:
Oh, hard times, come again no more!
'Tis a sigh that is wafted across the troubled wave.
'Tis a wail that is heard upon the shore.
'Tis a dirge that is murmured around the lowly grave.
Oh, hard times, come again no more!

FOLK SONG.
BACK she came through the
flaming dusk,
And her mother spoke and said:
"What does your eyes that dewy light?"
What makes your lips so strangely bright?
And why are your cheeks so red?
Oh, mother, the berries I ate in the lane.
Have left a stain.

tering dusk,

And why do you hang your head?
"Oh, mother, can you know,"
I loved him so."

Glowworms Use Anaesthetics.
Before he begins to feast the glow-worm administers an anaesthetic. He chloroforms his victim, rivaling in the process the wonders of modern surgery, which render the patient insensible before the surgeon operates on him. The usual glow is a small snail, hardly the size of a cherry, which in hot weather collects in clusters on the stiff stubble and other long, dry stalks by the roadside, remaining there motionless, in profound meditation, throughout the scorching summer days.
It is in some such resting place as this that I have often been privileged to light upon the lampyris banqueting on the prey which he had just paralyzed on its shaky support by his surgical artifices.
But he is familiar with other preserves. He frequents the edges of the irrigating ditches, with their cool soil, their varied vegetation, a favorite haunt of the mollusk. Here he treats the game on the ground and under these conditions it is easy for me to rear him at home and to follow the operator's performance down to the smallest detail.—Henri Fabre in Century Magazine.

Holding Thumbs For Nilsson.
My professional vocation has brought me up against almost every conceivable superstition, from Brignoli's stuffed deer's head to the more commonplace fetish against thirteen as a number. But I never saw any one more obsessed by an idea of this sort than Christine Nilsson. She actually would not sing unless some one "held her thumbs" first. "Holding thumbs" is quite an ancient way of inciting good luck. One promises to "hold one's thumbs" for a friend who is going through some ordeal, like a first night or an operation for appendicitis or a wedding or anything else desperate.
Nilsson was the first person I ever knew who practiced the charm the other way about. Before she would even go on the stage somebody, if only the stage carpenter, had to take hold of her two thumbs and press them. She was convinced that the mystic rite brought her good fortune.—"Memoirs of an American Prima Donna," by Illumination by Phosphorus.

Phosphorus is sometimes used for illuminating purposes, but the light is rather dim. The method is as follows, and it is serviceable when means of striking a light are not at hand: Take a long and narrow vial of the whitest and clearest glass, put in a piece of phosphorus about the size of a pea, upon which pour some olive oil heated to the boiling point; fill the vial about one-third full and then seal the vial hermetically. To use it remove the cork and allow the air to enter the vial, and then recork it. The empty space in the bottle will then become luminous, and the light obtained will be equal to that of a dull lamp. As soon as the light becomes weak its power can be increased by opening the vial and allowing a fresh supply of air to enter. In winter it is sometimes necessary to heat the vial between the hands to increase the fluidity of the oil. Thus prepared the vial may be used for six months.

Four Sons of Fame.
It is a rarity for more than one member of any family to become famous.
Nature seems coy about centralizing in more than one scion of the same house enough of stamina, grit, genius and ability wherewith to cut a niche in the temple of fame. The exceptions to this rule are very few. The Pitts, the Adamsons, the Van Burens and the Boechers have already been honored with this distinction, and to this roll of honor must be added the Fields.
There is hardly a parallel case in history where four brothers attained such prominence as David Dudley Field, Henry M. Field, Cyrus W. Field and Stephen J. Field. These men were truly called four sons of fame, age, and four brothers in fame.—Magazine of American History.

Missing a Great Chance.
During an aviation meet in Chicago a professional pickpocket, who was locked up in jail pending trial, sent for the prosecuting attorney and begged to be released.
"But," said the P. A., "you picked a man's pockets. Of course you'll have to do some time."
"Well, sir," replied the prisoner, "I suppose you're right, and, to tell the truth, I don't mind the mere fact of being in jail; but, gee, it's fierce to be here during this aviation meet, with everybody looking up in the air!"—Ev-your mind off the food!"—Musician.

Efficient Country Minister Is a Community Engineer

By Rev. G. FREDERICK WELLS of Tyngham, Mass., Member of the Conference of Rural Community Leagues.

A COMMUNITY engineer is a person who gets community leaders and workers to solve community problems. The country minister in fulfilling the functions of a community engineer concentrates the combined force of his work as preacher, pastor and administrator. The practical questions which confront the pastor in his every day relations to his church and constituency compel him to be proficient as a COMMUNITY ENGINEER or a moral and social failure. THE PRINCIPLES OF SUCCESSFUL AND TRUE ENGINEERING ARE AVAILABLE, AND FROM THEM THE PASTOR MAY FIND SUFFICIENT GUIDANCE FOR THE SOLUTION OF ALL PRESENT PROBLEMS.

COLD SNAP

Cold in Indiana.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 12.—Indiana got its first real dose of winter weather for the season today. Ten degrees above zero was the minimum temperature reported here by the weather bureau. It was said the mercury would hover around this figure and tonight would drop to the zero mark.

The cold wave is general throughout the state.

Below Zero.

MANY VICTIMS FROM THE COLD

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)

Paris, Jan. 12.—Central Europe is experiencing the most severe winter in a generation. The blizzards of a fortnight ago, after abating somewhat, seem to have returned with renewed vigor.

In eastern Russia 150 deaths from the cold were officially reported yesterday and stories of peasants devoured by wolves are numerous. St. Petersburg is in the grip of a three-foot snowfall, with communication almost cut off and food supplies low.

In Bavaria and Alsace Lorraine, heavy snow storms have blocked railroad traffic and wrecked wires. In Switzerland snow has been falling continuously since Friday. The danger from avalanches and floods is regarded as serious.

In Belgium the floods are receding, but the snowfall continues and a sudden drop in temperature would mean further flood loss. The damage in the flooded districts is already enormous. The condition of thousands of homeless peasants has been made precarious by the blizzard.

DIRECTORS OF BOARD OF TRADE MEET TONIGHT

The board of directors of the Newark Board of Trade will meet tonight at the office of the Board, 1001 Trust building to discuss the general business of the Board and get in behind the campaign now on to finance the Board. This will be the first meeting of the new year and it is hoped every member will be present as definite action must be taken in several matters and a quorum is necessary.

The replies to the booklet soliciting subscriptions to an industrial fund are coming in and the publication of the honor list will begin Wednesday instead of Monday, to allow the first report to be made at the dinner Tuesday evening.

The dinner Tuesday evening will be a very pleasant affair. Mr. Barrett of Columbus who has signified his intention to be present is a fine speaker as well as a man widely versed in commercial affairs. The other speakers, local and visiting, will give the meeting a keen interest. Dinner will be served by McDaniel and will be ready promptly at 6:30 o'clock. As the assembly hall is only large enough to accommodate slightly over 100 members should notify the secretary for seats if they intend to come.

PROSPECTS BRIGHT FOR THE DENISON BASKETBALL TEAM

Granville, O., Jan. 12.—The showing made in the games with Wooster and Capital University, greatly enhances the bright prospects for the best basketball season Denison ever had. In the first two games, Captain Prouty's men have scored 154 points, in contrast to 27 scored by opponents. However, not so much attention should be directed to the size of the score, as to the excellent teamwork and the ability to shoot baskets displayed by the men.

Coach Livingston is working the squad at top notch every afternoon for an hour, so that when the team enters a hard game they will be able to exert their best efforts throughout the contest.

Although Black, at right forward, may be accredited with the lion's share of the laurels, he is being forced to assume a faster pace this year than ever before to gain the honors. The work of Captain Prouty, Reese, Jones, Thiele, and Biggs, is far above the normal and it would be practically impossible to pick a weak spot on the team.

The big "Red" squad is stocky, averaging about 172, this advantage coupled with the fast floor work gives "Livy's understudies" a marked advantage. "More speed" is the urgent request made to the squad from time to time and the demand does not pass unnoticed, as the breakneck speed with which the team plays will signify.

Thiele and Biggs are fighting hard for right guard and the honors so far have apparently gone to Thiele, who is strong both on defensive and offensive work. This is his first year on the team; he is stocky, fast, a good shot, and has had considerable experience. Biggs, subbed on last season's quintet and played a creditable game, whenever he was used, he is heavy, fast, and an excellent guard.

Frank Smith, an engineer employed at the E. H. Everett company, had a narrow escape from death early Sunday morning.

Mr. Smith was engaged in his duties about the engine when in some unexplainable way he slipped and fell against the machinery. The presence of mind of several employees probably saved his life. Dr. J. G. Shirer was called and an examination showed that he had suffered a number of contusions and bruises about the head and face and the fracture of the right elbow, but none of the injuries is serious.

He was removed to his home, 319 Beach street, where he is resting comfortably today.

American Women Are Not Generous

By Miss EVA WARD, English Suffragist

AMERICAN women are much LESS GENEROUS THAN ENGLISHWOMEN.

AMERICAN WOMEN SPEND A GREAT DEAL OF THOUGHT AND MONEY ON THEIR APPEARANCE. AND HOW THEY TRAVEL! WHY, IF AN AMERICAN WOMAN INHERITS A THOUSAND POUNDS, SHE COMES AT ONCE TO ENGLAND AND GETS A NOTION OF STRATFORD AND A MOST SUPERFICIAL VIEW OF EUROPE.

I think it admirable in her to want to improve herself, but an Englishwoman would SPEND PART OF THE MONEY ON CHARITY. That's why we are able to raise money, because Englishwomen are USED TO GIVING IT AWAY. I understand that American women want to spend it all on themselves.

LITTLE DISCUSSIONS OF LOVE AND MARRIAGE

BY BARBARA BOYD

Wasting Life

"I sometimes wonder," said the Bachelor Girl reflectively, "if, deep down in their souls, some married women don't think they have given their lives for nothing. And I don't mean women whose husbands have run off, or who drink, or anything of that sort. I mean some of the respectable, seemingly happy people right about us."

"But why should Mrs. James, for instance, who is respectable and seems happy, think that by marrying, she has wasted her life?"

"She was the one I had in mind," laughed the Bachelor Girl. "I have an idea you are thinking the same thing I am."

"Two minds with but a single thought," quoted the Bachelor, with a meaning look.

The Bachelor Girl blushed. "I don't mean to infer," she hurried on, "that necessarily a woman wastes her life by marrying. But I do think that some women must come to the conclusion that they have wasted their life by taking the matrimonial route."

"Do you think one is wasting his life by helping another?"

"It depends upon the kind of help exacted and the return it brings."

"I see you are applying the rules of efficiency and business to the realm of love. I am afraid they won't mix."

"I am only applying the rules of common sense," replied the Bachelor Girl. "But to return to Mrs. James,—and I think if the truth were told there are thousands of women like her. She is a woman of intelligence and force and executive ability,—the kind who gets things done, who delivers the goods, as the saying is. Yet what has she to show at the end of twenty years of married life?"

"A contented husband, a charming home, and several healthy, happy children. What more can a woman ask?" promptly replied the Bachelor.

"That's what the world sees. But I've seen from the inside, and that is what has set me to pondering if many a woman of ability, whom the world counts a happy wife, doesn't ask if the game is worth the candle?"

"But a woman doesn't put it on that basis. It isn't a question of profit and loss to be reckoned up in a ledger. She is glad to give, and happy in the giving," protested the Bachelor.

"But some of the things of married life should be put on that basis," insisted the Bachelor Girl. "She should exact returns that will repay her for what she has given. Mr. James, for instance, is absorbed in his business. He is altogether inattentive to her. He is home very little. And when he is, he looks upon his home as a place to eat and sleep. I don't believe he holds an hour's conversation with her in a month, and then it is only about household matters. And it really isn't because he doesn't care for her, or anything of that sort. He'd be highly indignant if anything of the kind were hinted to him, or that he is neglectful. He simply doesn't see her side of it, that's all. He lives in his business, and he has gradually slipped into this way of living, until now he is the most monosyllabic person about the home I have ever seen. Now what pleasure does she get out of his society? And is this conduct any return for all the years she has helped him build up this business? For by her management of the home she has helped. She has cooked and washed and mended and boarded his employees, and really done harder physical work than he has. And as a result, she lives with a clam or an oyster."

The Bachelor laughed. But he looked as if he were making some mental notes.

"Her oldest son drinks and gambles and does anything else he wants to. Her oldest daughter seems pleasant enough; but she is wilful and obstinate, and I imagine would cause a lot of trouble if crossed. And the youngest child is about as spoiled a youngster as you would find anywhere."

"That's all her fault," declared the Bachelor.

"Maybe. But she brought them up the very best she knew. And this is what she has to show for her work. And, for her work in the home, she has an inattentive husband, altogether absorbed in business. She might as well have an adding machine or a typewriter, for all the congenial company he is to her. And so I wonder, if sometimes she does not think she has wasted her life, and that if she had chosen some other course, she might not have more worth-while results to show for her efforts. For her family all go their own way indifferent to her, and in reality her life is empty. And she can't point to having accomplished anything worth the doing."

"Her husband and children should not be that way," said the Bachelor. "Of course they shouldn't. But they are. And so are hundreds of others. It seems to me that it would be a good thing if before marrying, men would study a little the art of being a good husband."

"I'm perfectly willing to do so," replied the Bachelor, "if you will be the instructor."

South America Holds Forth Unlimited Opportunity For People of This Country

By AUGUSTO B. LEGUIA, Former President of Peru

THERE IS UNLIMITED OPPORTUNITY IN SOUTH AMERICA FOR AMERICAN BUSINESS AND FOR AMERICAN CAPITAL AS WELL. WE ARE SHORT OF AMERICAN CAPITAL, AND WE NEED MORE AMERICAN ENTERPRISE AND SPIRIT.

The possibilities for these are simply without any limit. In Peru especially there are agriculture and mining. In order that the present production of the country be increased it will be necessary to carry out schemes of irrigation. But these are quite feasible. Fifty-five rivers flow into the sea, and their waters have so far not been made use of to assist nature or man.

These rivers would make any amount of power, harnessed up, for the whole coast of Peru is an inclined plane, so that the flow of the river is strong, and THOUSANDS OF HORSEPOWER GO TO WASTE EVERY HOUR. This could easily be harnessed up.

The population of Peru grows very slowly. No census has been taken in twenty-five years, but we estimate the population today in the neighborhood of five million.

The Panama canal means for the west coast of South America a radical change of geography. Peru's position will be improved by some five thousand miles. I mean that it will be brought that much nearer New York.

Indeed, the position of the whole of South America will be radically changed, and conditions of TRADE MUST UNDERGO A REVOLUTION. In Peru they are trying to enlarge the port facilities to take care of the trade resulting from the opening of the canal.

PASTOR RUSSELL

New York City, Jan. 11.—Pastor Russell preached twice here today in the handsome Auditorium of the new City Temple to a highly appreciative audience from the following text: "If any man desire the temple of God, him shall God destroy; for the temple of God is holy, which temple ye are."—1 Corinthians 3:17.

The Pastor declared that this Scripture could not be applied indiscriminately, with the same force, to all men. Only the Church are temples of God in the sense the Apostle here mentions; for only such as have been regenerated, begotten again by the Holy Spirit, are the sons of God. These have received a new life, and are Scripturally described as "New Creatures in Christ Jesus." To these, "Old things have passed away, and all things have become new." These have entered into a covenant with God through the merit of Jesus, who serves them as Advocate, imputing His righteousness to them, justifying them freely from their unintentional imperfections and weaknesses. Because they are thus justified by faith, God has accepted their sacrifice of earthly hopes and interests, and has made them New Creatures by begetting them with the Holy Spirit.

This, however, is only the beginning of their new experience. If faithful, they will still loyally comply with their Covenant of Sacrifice, and count no experience too hard in their endeavor to so live as to glorify God in their bodies and spirits, which are His. They will count it all joy when they pass through fiery trials, esteeming all things but loss and dross in comparison with the rewards which God has promised them. They follow their Redeemer through evil report, as well as through good report, seeking to walk in His steps. These, as New Creatures, are said to dwell in, or inhabit, the earthly body, using it merely as a servant in the doing of the will of God.

The distinction between these New Creatures, spirit-begotten, and the remainder of mankind (however just and well-intentioned) is very decided. We do not speak of humanity, ordinarily, as apart from their bodies; for cut off from the body, they would be dead. We speak of such separation as dissolution. As the union of life (vitality) with organism (body) forms the soul, or sentient being, so the separating of these two components causes the soul to cease. Thus death would be the end of humanity, had not God provided for the redemption of our race, and its restitution by resurrection. Its restitution will be merely a bringing back of that which death is now destroying; viz., human or earthly being.

Whoever realizes the majesty of God's work in human creation should also realize that anything done, either deliberately or carelessly, to injure God's workmanship would be sin, whether the injury be toward his own body—himself—or toward another. There is a Divine Law to the effect that, whosoever sins must suffer. Whosoever would defile his body, either by impure thoughts, angry thoughts, malicious thoughts, or by misusing it contrary to Divine arrangement, or by drinking, or by gluttony, is defiling himself, the temple of his soul, or being the work of God. Every vile thought or act, every pondering to selfish appetite, is sure to bring automatically depravity of body or mind or both; and depravity is the process of death at work. And unless such depravity, or death, be overcome through Christ, the end thereof will be everlasting death. "The soul that sinneth, it shall die."—Ezekiel 18:4, 20.

The same principle applies to all who would do evil to others, either by polluting their minds or their morals, or by injuring their physical systems. Such a one would be doing violence to the work of God. He would be degrading his own manhood. The operation of Divine Law would surely bring him punishment, and these unheeded would ultimately bring death—"everlasting destruction."

We may warn every man along the broad, general line of the Bible, "Whosoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap." He that sows to the flesh—to sin, to selfishness, to meanness, to the fallen propensities, to anger, malice, envy, hatred, strife, evil speaking, etc.—will be sure to reap correspondingly bitter experiences; and this way persisted in would finally bring him to the Second Death. God has no gift of eternal life or other eternal favors for those who love sin. His mercies are provided for those who have learned the lesson and have turned from sin and become loyal and obedient to their Creator.

God's Temple the Church.

St. Paul tells exactly what he refers to by this term, "temple of God," saying, "Know ye not that ye are the temple of God, and that the Spirit of God dwelleth in you?" In the Wilderness, when God entered into covenant relationship with the Israelites, becoming their God and accepting them as His people under the Law Covenant, He manifested Himself in the Most Holy of their Tabernacle. The Divine presence was indicated by a great light called the Shekinah Glory, which shone out from between the Cherubim covering the Mercy Seat.

When the Israelites would draw near to God, they did so through His appointed servants, Aaron and his sons. These had access to God's presence. The Tabernacle was therefore the temple of God, because God was represented by His Spirit, or Power, or Presence, there. But it was called the Tabernacle because it was merely a tent, in contrast with the permanent building erected later by King Solomon. After its dedication, God appeared in that Temple instead of in the Tabernacle, and His presence was manifested in the same manner.

The Church is the antitypical Temple of God; but, as St. Peter points out, it as a Temple is not yet constructed. (1 Peter 2:4-6.) Each consecrated child of God, begotten of the Holy Spirit, is a living stone in preparation for a place in the glorious Temple of God, soon to be constructed. These living stones are God's workmanship. He works in them by the Spirit of Truth; and by His providence He shapes them, polishes them, develops their characters, and makes them ready for the coming building. Nevertheless, this Master-workman always recognizes the free will of His people. He works in them only as much as they are willing to let Him work, only in harmony with their prayers to be filled with His Spirit.

Some indeed draw back entirely. They are at liberty to draw back unto perdition; or, as many do, they are at liberty to draw back from the full preparation for the Kingdom and the Temple, to hold back from the chiseling and polishing, so as to be unfit for a place in the Temple. As long as they do not draw back in heart, however, but remain loyal to the Lord, they will get a blessing, even though they will miss the chief blessing. This the Apostle shows in the preceding context, saying, "If any man's work abide, he shall receive a reward. If any man's work shall be burned, he shall suffer loss; but he himself shall be saved, so as by fire"—because he has built upon the Rock.

The Temple Not Yet Built.

According to St. Peter's picture, the living stones for the Temple are merely chiseled and polished during their earthly life; and not until the resurrection will these living stones come together as the Temple of God, to be fully indwelt by His Holy Spirit. Hence St. Paul was speaking merely of our earthly bodies as temples of the Holy Spirit. In other words, he was calling our fleshly tabernacles temples. So in another place he declared, "We that are in this tabernacle do groan, being burdened; not that we would be unclothed (without a tabernacle, or body), but that we would be clothed upon"—with our Heavenly house, our spiritual bodies, which God has promised in the resurrection.

St. Paul's thought appears to be that wherever God may dwell is necessarily holy—His temple or His tabernacle; and that any willful or intentional deliberateness in sin, depraving that temple or tabernacle, would be an offense not only against it, but against God.

Head Stopped Up? Can't Breathe? Try the New External Treatment

Applied in Salve Form Over Throat and Chest Relieves by Inhalation and Absorption.

Vapor treatments are best for all inflammations of the air passages. The vapors carry the medication direct to the inflamed surface without disturbing the stomach as do internal medicines. A cheap and very convenient vapor treatment is a good application of Vick's "Vap-O-Rub" Croup and Pneumonia Salve over the throat and chest, covered with a warm flannel cloth. The body heat releases vapors of Thymol Eucalyptol, Menthol, Camphor, and Pine Tar, that are inhaled with every breath, through the air passages to the lungs. These vapors open the air passages, loosen the phlegm, and heal the raw surfaces. If the cold is in the chest, apply hot wet towels to open the pores. Vick's is then absorbed through the skin, taking out that tightness and soreness.

A little Vick's applied up the nostrils and over the temples is very beneficial for head colds and catarrh and will relieve most cases of headache and neuralgia. Vick's is also excellent for Asthma, Hay Fever, and Bronchial Troubles. Three sizes, at all dealers—25c, 50c, and $1.00.

Oh, if Christian people who have received the begetting of the Holy Spirit could but comprehend this lesson, we may be sure that it would have a powerful influence upon their lives!

Solomon's Typical Temple.

Under Divine direction the stones and timbers for Solomon's temple were prepared before the work of constructing the temple began. We read that the whole building went together perfectly, without the sound of a hammer; i. e., there was no need to pound or chisel any part. Every stone was perfectly fitted for its place. This is very much the style of our modern construction. The huge stones in our great buildings are not chiseled on the spot, nor during the process of construction, but in the quarry, and then are crated and brought to the building site all ready to be placed.

God, the great Architect of the spiritual Temple, planned and directed that earthly temple's construction so as to make of it an illustration of the real Temple of God, the Church in glory. In our earthly experiences we receive the chiseling and polishing necessary to our various places in the glorious Temple about to be built. Whoever resists these chiseling, or by unfitness escapes them, will thereby just so surely escape being a member of the Church in glory. We cannot afford that loss. We must therefore gladly submit ourselves to the Divine providences which shape our lives, our destinies, and prepare us for the glorious things which God has in reservation for those that love Him.

The resurrection of the Church is in the Bible called the First Resurrection, or Chief Resurrection; for all those who will participate in it will experience an instantaneous change from earthly conditions—"changed in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye." Each one thus changed is thereby fitted, or built, into his place in the Temple of Glory. This resurrection work is due to begin at the Second Coming of Christ, when the dead in Christ shall rise first. (1 Thessalonians 4:16.) Thus a considerable number of living stones will be laid simultaneously to their places in glory.

Then will follow the change of the remaining members of the Church. As the Apostle explains, we which are alive and remain shall be changed. Each will be changed in an instant, not slowly; but all will not be changed in the same instant or moment. The processes will gradually continue during the time called in the Bible the Harvest; and by the conclusion of the Harvest the last of these living stones will have passed beyond the veil, "changed." Then the Temple will be finished. The next step in the Divine program will be that which was typified by the glory of the Lord coming into Solomon's temple and filling it, after it had been completed.

"Presented With Exceeding Joy."

In considering what may be the antitype of the filling of that temple with God's glory, we may not speak with too great positiveness. We may merely give our conjecture. We know that the resurrection change will give to each member of the Church class a personal glory; as it is written, "Sown in weakness, raised in power; sown in dishonor, raised in glory; sown an animal body, raised a spiritual body." But the glory filling Solomon's temple cannot seemingly refer to this personal glory. Rather, it must signify the honor which God will give to the Church and of which the Savior spoke, saying that whosoever would confess Him before men, He would confess before the Father and before the holy angels. This would be the filling of the Church with the Divine glory.

Other Scriptures tell us that the Redeemer will present us blameless and irreprovable before the Father with exceeding joy. This will be glory for us! Having received the Savior's "Well done!" to receive finally the Father's approval and by Him to be honored before the holy angels will be to fill the Church, the Temple of God, with Divine Glory. But perhaps still more than this is meant. Perhaps it means that when the Father shall receive the Church He will glorify her by communicating of His power, authority, to her, investing her, in association with the Lord Jesus, the Heavenly Bridegroom, with the Divine authority and power to take hold of the world's affairs for its rescue from sin and death, in connection with the binding of Satan for a thousand years and the blessing of all the families of the earth with the knowledge of the glory of God.

The Atonement Day in Type.

In everything God caused typical Israel to perform typical ceremonies, illustrative of various features of the Divine Plan. The Atonement Day sacrifices represented the "better sacrifices" of Jesus, our great High Priest. He first offered up Himself, at Jordan, finishing His work at Calvary. Beginning at Pentecost, He has been offering up all those whom He accepts as members of His Body. The death of the last member of the Body of Christ, tol, Menthol, Camphor, and Pine Tar, that are inhaled with every breath, through the air passages to the lungs. These vapors open the air passages, loosen the phlegm, and heal the raw surfaces. If the cold is in the chest, apply hot wet towels to open the pores. Vick's is then absorbed through the skin, taking out that tightness and soreness.

which is the Church, will mean the completion of the great High Priest's better sacrifices. It will mean the passing of all the members of His Body into death, according to the flesh, but into membership in the Body of the High Priest on the spirit plane, as spirit beings. It will mean that the High Priest complete will then be beyond the second veil.

As the first work of the typical priest beyond the veil on the Atonement Day was the sprinkling of the blood upon the Mercy Seat on behalf of all the people, so the antitype of this will mean the presentation to God of the merit of the better sacrifices of Christ, on behalf of all the world of mankind. The type shows us that this merit will be acceptable. As then the high priest went forth from the Most Holy to the presence of the people, and lifted up his hands and blessed them, so this signifies that Christ and the Church will, after receiving the Father's blessing for mankind, go forth to bestow their blessings upon the whole world, during the thousand years of Messiah's Kingdom—to take away the curse and to give, instead, the Divine blessing of Restitution of all things lost through Adam and redeemed by Jesus.

The Glory-Filled Temple.

All through the thousand years of Messiah's Kingdom God will be in His glorified Church, which will be there, the glorious Temple of the Lord, from which will proceed to mankind all the blessings of instructions necessary for their full recovery to Divine favor. There will be no more atonement days, no more sin-offerings; for as St. Paul points out, the better sacrifices completely cancel sin. But there will be sacrifices; as it is written, "Then shall they offer whole burnt offerings upon Mine altar."

During Messiah's Kingdom the offerings of the people, which will be presented through the Church, the Temple, will be the offering, or devotion, of themselves—their time, their talent, their influence, to be used in joyful service. "Such consecration God is always pleased to receive. They will not be sin-offerings; for all the sin-offerings are accomplished in advance by the antitypical High Priest. His better sacrifices cover every feature of sin that is forgivable at all. All willful sins receive punishment, in proportion to willfulness—in proportion to knowledge and opportunity.

How glad we are to know of our privileges in connection with the glorious Temple which God is constructing! Oh, may we all as living stones submit ourselves, our wills, to God, to be finished in full conformity to His will! How glad we are that subsequently all mankind will have the privilege of approaching God through us, through this spiritual Temple, which is The Christ—Jesus the Head, and the Church—the Body!

"Winning of Barbara Worth." Barbara, the wife of the desert, left orphaned in the hollow of the hand of fate, parched and delirious, falls into the arms of Jefferson Worth, the sort of man that the men were who made the Western wastes bloom. She grows beautiful and tender. He grows rich and powerful. The patriotism of the West gets into his blood. He loves the child and she becomes his daughter. She has developed into a lovely woman, nurse to the Mexican ranchers, sister of mercy to the Apache, feminine disciple of the square deal. There are many men who look upon her wistfully. But she has set herself a mark which the man who wins her must reach first! He must be a leader for men. Willard Holmes, an Eastern engineer comes. He proves himself that man. His test comes in the defeat of the intrigues of a band of speculators who are exploiting the early reclamation improvements and dividends. A great disaster follows when the Colorado River tears out the slimy bulwarks erected against it. The engineer turns against the gamblers who employ him and fights to save lives. He wins. "In every crisis there must be a leader," says the girl. "You were the man." "Behind every leader there must be the faith and courage of a woman," answers. "You were the woman."

And we see them water-soaked, high and dry, in each other's arms, amid the wreckage of the elements. They have nothing to forgive. They have no "past" to live down. It is a sweet ending to a clean play. At the Auditorium, Wednesday January, 14. Seats now selling.

"Baby Mine." The production of "Baby Mine," which returns to the Auditorium, Saturday matinee and night, easily proved itself the most potential laughing hit ever recorded in this city last year, convulsing capacity audiences. Newspaper critics with one accord vied with one another in order to give vent to their expressions of unstinted delight. In fact they have openly declared that in no other instance has a play hit so suddenly and effectively won all classes of theater-goers as has "Baby Mine."

Klaw and Erlanger, whose name is connected with such successes as "Ben Hur," "The Round Up," "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," and many other of the biggest things theatrical of the last twenty years will send to Columbus their newest success "The Poor Little Rich Girl," which plays the Hartman Theater for a week, January 26th, with matinees Wednesday and Saturday. Newark Corn Show Was a Big Success

The Licking County Corn Show held in Newark last week was very successful. The exhibitors numbered nearly 100, making 267 entries. In one class 2820 ears of corn were shown. In all 87 varieties of Licking county corn were exhibited. The prizes amounted to $350. In taking the accompanying picture, Photographer H. C. Wagoner stood near the third street entrance of the Arcade. The placard seen near the center of the picture reads "Stay in Licking County. President J. M. Farmer and Secretary W. C. Metz of the Licking County Crop Improvement Association, desire to thank the farmers for their great interest in the corn show and they want to thank the merchants who contributed prizes and cash. They also thank the 'Corn Boys' and Messrs J. M. Lambert, Orville Kiger, Alex. Wilson, M. C. Kent, A. H. Powell, W. J. Eade, E. L. Curry and all others who by their energy contributed to the success of the corn show. The Expert Judge J. W. Cook pronounced the Newark display one of the best ever seen in Ohio. The effect will be far reaching as this practical demonstration of what scientific corn growing will do means that many Licking county farmers next year will produce larger and better crops."

Laymen's Conference Brings to Newark Men Prominent in World's Missionary Work

The three days' session of the Laymen's Conference ended this afternoon with the closing meeting of the conference at the Central Church of Christ. The program for the three days included a banquet for men at the Baptist church Saturday night, special missionary services in all the Protestant churches of the city and a morning and afternoon conference on Monday.

At the banquet Saturday night, 112 men were seated at tables where supper was served by the ladies of the Baptist church. Two special addresses were given by S. J. Corry, secretary of the Foreign Christian Missionary society and by J. Allen Miller, B. D. D. president of the theological department of Ashland University. Mr. Corry talked on "The World's Challenge to the Church Today." Dr. Miller spoke on "America as a Field and a Force." Both speakers pleased the audiences by their clear, strong messages.

Dr. Miller's address was a message of encouragement to the church workers in domestic and foreign fields. He pointed out the need for a new kind of Christianity, one that is not only a religion of the heart but also a religion of the hand. He urged the church to be more active in the world's missionary work.

livered stirring addresses. The men alternated in speaking at this meeting and the mass meeting for women at the Fifth Street Baptist church.

Sunday night Mr. Warren spoke at the Fifth Street Baptist church and Dr. Miller at the East Main Street Baptist church. Dr. Wiley was the speaker at the Plymouth Congregational church.

Monday morning a session of the conference was held at St. John's Evangelical church, most of the pastors of the city being in attendance. Four addresses were delivered and questions discussed by the pastors. This afternoon at 2:30 o'clock a union mass meeting was held at the Central Church of Christ, where the missionary speakers addressed a good sized audience.

Mr. Corry left Sunday evening for New York City to attend a conference of missionary secretaries and Mr. Wiley will leave tonight for Mt. Vernon, where he will address a similar conference beginning Tuesday. President Curry of Ashland College, was expected in the city to take part in the Monday afternoon session.

namely—Manic-depressive insanity, paranoia, dementia praecox, or delusional insanity.

In our opinion, it is reasonably probable that Harry Kendall Thaw's liberty under bail would not be dangerous or a menace to the public peace and safety.

After referring briefly to Thaw's second trial and his commitment to Matteawan State Hospital as a victim of manic-depressive insanity, the report says the commission examined all the entries in the official record of the hospital relating to Thaw, from Feb. 1, 1908 to the date of his escape from the institution, Aug. 17, 1913. Transcripts of three cross-examinations of Thaw by counsel for the state of New York on habeas corpus proceedings instituted on his behalf were also inspected.

"All these cross-examinations," says the report (except that before Justice Morschauser, which was brief), were of great length and covered the mental condition and attitude of Thaw at the time of his escape.

"We also had before us," say the commissioners, "various exhibits, letters and other documents used upon the trials for homicide and in other proceedings, some of which were furnished by counsel for the state of New York and some by Thaw's counsel."

The report then tells of the public hearing held Jan. 7, at which interested parties were asked to offer evidence of facts committed by Thaw since his commitment to Matteawan, tending to show personal violence, and evidence to the contrary. "Counsel for the state of New York," it continues, "declined to appear on the alleged ground that our power under the order of the court was inadequate to a determination of the question submitted. Counsel appeared for Thaw and offered evidence of his custodians since Sept. 18, 1913."

Mental examinations of Thaw were made by the commission during four days in December and from time to time afterward. The report says these examinations "covered a searching inquisition into all the acts of his life, including a review of his statements made in the various cross-examinations referred to. They also included an examination of his present and former mental attitudes with reference to all his acts."

Harry Thaw attended church with his mother yesterday. They went to the South Presbyterian, accompanied by one of Thaw's friends.

Later they were informed of the finding of the commission, but although evidently pleased neither would make any comment, saying that they are acting by advice of counsel.

THAW WILL GO INTO BUSINESS

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Pittsburgh, Jan. 12.—Roger O'Mara, trustee for the estate of Harry K. Thaw and his confidential adviser, said today that while no definite plans had been formed for Thaw, if he is released on bail he would probably come to Pittsburgh and go into business.

"Court action to establish Thaw's sanity in Pennsylvania will be reopened," he declared. "He has the ability to start and maintain a successful business and he will do it."

JEROME WILL NOT COMMENT ON FINDING

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
New York, Jan. 12.—Attorneys, alienists, and others who have been participants in the trials and insanity hearings of Harry K. Thaw, reacted with the news of the commission's report which declared that he is sane with conflicting emotions—some expressing pleasure at the findings others reiterating convictions that Thaw would be a menace if released on bail.

William T. Jerome who was district attorney when Thaw killed Stanford White and who has since continued to oppose every move to let him declared sane, refused to discuss the commission's report. He said he did not care to discuss the next move to have Thaw returned to Matteawan from which institution he escaped five months ago.

This action of the commission which was appointed by Judge Alton B. Parker of the district court of New York, was the most important victory won by Harry Thaw in his fight for civil since he escaped from Matteawan asylum on the morning of Sunday, August 17, in a fast escape.

It is generally agreed now that Thaw stands an excellent chance of being admitted to the bar by Judge Alton B. Parker. The determination of the court on habeas corpus sued out in his behalf.

THE EASIEST WAY TO END DANDRUFF

Stop Falling Hair and Itching Scalp.

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain ordinary liquid arvon, apply it at night when retiring, use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

If you want to keep your hair looking rich, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for nothing destroys the hair so quickly. It not only starves the hair and makes it fall out, but it makes it stringy, straggly, dull, dry, brittle and lifeless and everybody notices it. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.

GET TO THE CAUSE

Newark People are Learning the Way.

There is but little peace or comfort for the man or woman with a bad back. The distress begins in early morning—keeps up throughout the day. It's hard to get out of bed, it's torture to stoop or straighten. Plasters and liniments may relieve, but cannot cure if the cause is inside—the kidneys. When suffering so, use Doan's Kidney Pills, the tested and proven kidney remedy, used in kidney troubles for over 50 years. Doan's Kidney Pills are recommended by thousands for just such cases. Proof of their effectiveness in the testimony of this Newark resident:

Mrs. Frey, 131 B. Second St., Newark, Ohio, says: "My kidneys were weak and I had backaches. I used different remedies, but was not benefited until I took Doan's Kidney Pills, procured from A. F. Crayton & Co's Drug Store. The backache left and my kidneys became strong."

Price 50c at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Frey had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.
